

FREE

Emerald Ash Borer (EAB) Workshop

Saturday, November 10, 2012
1:00-3:00 PM

Greenfield Community Center - 7315 W. Cold Spring Road (former Library)

FREE, open to the public

Residents of Greenfield and surrounding communities welcome. No registration required.

EAB has already killed over 50 million ash trees. Yours could be next. Find out where it is in your community, what is required of you and how you can protect your ash trees.

Topics include:

- A brief history of EAB in the US & Wisconsin
- Where are trees dying in your community
- Learn to identify EAB
- Learn to identify ash trees
- Discuss treatment & prevention options
- Discuss how EAB will affect you and your community

Speakers:

- Sharon Morrise: Consumer Horticultural agent Milwaukee County University Wisconsin Extension UWEX
Providing a brief history of EAB and its spread.
- Bill McNee: Wisconsin DNR Plant Pest & Disease Specialist
Discussing insect life cycle, and treatment options.

A panel of forest managers from Greenfield & neighboring communities will also be on hand to answer questions and compare how different communities are dealing with EAB.

EAB has already killed hundreds of ash trees in Oak Creek our nearest neighbor. City Forester from Oak Creek, Rebecca Lane will make a brief presentation describing her cities experience with this destructive pest.

Hosted by the City of Greenfield DPW/Forestry.
With a grant assistance from Wisconsin DNR Urban Forestry.

For more information contact the Department of Public Works (DPW)
Forestry Division at
(414) 761-5374